REDEDICATION

NOVEMBER 9, 2002

OH BEAUTIFUL FOR SPACIOUS SKIES...

This is the hallowed hall of heroes... this Memorial Coliseum.

A living memorial to our sons and daughters, our brothers and sisters, our fathers and mothers, and our dear friends who served their God and their country with the last full measure of devotion.

It is not so much a monument to the generosity of the living as it is a testament to the sacrifice of the honored dead.

Before its magnificence we are not so proud as we are humble.

This is the day of formal rededication, 9 November 2002.

From this day on, this stone and mortar, this steel and wood, this thing material becomes spiritual as well: the consecrated symbol in Allen County of its citizens' abiding faith in, and love for our native heroes and their righteous cause.

THE MEMORIAL THAT STANDS AT THE HEART OF COMMUNITY LIFE.

HOW THE MEMORIAL COLISEUM WAS BUILT

The idea behind the Allen County War Memorial Coliseum began in 1944, when the Fort Wayne Junior Chamber of Commerce (now known as the Jaycees) began discussing a proposal "to undertake a project to build a field house in Fort Wayne and dedicate it as a war memorial." Then, buildings in the area were too small to house larger community functions such as sports events and concerts.

The newly constructed Memorial Coliseum in 1952 at the corner of Parnell Avenue and California Road

The Jaycees — and their wives — worked hard to garner public support for the project by passing out handbills door to door and distributing buttons to schoolchildren that read “We Want the War Memorial Coliseum.” As the country was involved in World War II, the idea of a permanent memorial to Allen County’s war heroes appealed to many residents. A countywide referendum on the Memorial Coliseum passed, despite the $3 million price tag, which was considered a huge sum.

The Allen County commissioners started by purchasing the site — a prime piece of real estate at California Road at Parnell Avenue, near two farms, Johnny Appleseed Park and highway US-30 being constructed nearby (now Coliseum Boulevard). After securing needed financing through a bond issue, the commissioners broke ground for the project in January, 1950. Upon completion in September, 1952, a dedication ceremony was held, with 24 area veterans' organizations and 10,000 people attending.

HISTORY WAS MADE IN THESE HALLS

The Memorial Coliseum quickly became the site of major professional and amateur sporting events, circuses, ice skating shows, religious gatherings, political rallies, civic and school events and patriotic observances. In many ways, it reflected the heart and soul of the community through the events that it hosted.

Here's just a sampling from the events that have happened at the Memorial Coliseum:

Turner Cup Champions 1993

★ The Fort Wayne Komets hockey team started playing at the Memorial Coliseum in 1952, winning four championships through the years.

- ★ The Zollner Pistons, Fort Wayne's first pro basketball team, had been playing in the North Side High School gym, but moved to the Memorial Coliseum in 1952. They played five seasons here before moving to Detroit in 1957.

- ★ The National Basketball Association (NBA) played their All-Star game at the Memorial Coliseum in 1953 to a sell-out crowd of 10,322 fans. The West team, led by three hometowners Pistons, beat the East team, 79-75.

- ★ Hoosier Hysteria reached fever peak when high school basketball semi-state tournaments were held at the Memorial Coliseum from 1953-1998. Capacity crowds packed the seats, and many camped out hoping to get tickets.

★ Many entertainment legends have appeared at the Memorial Coliseum over the years, including the Rolling Stones, Bob Hope, Liberace, Louis Armstrong, Johnny Cash, the Beach Boys, Jefferson Airplane, Yes, Fleetwood Mac, Bob Dylan, Aerosmith, Elton John and many others.

OH BEAUTIFUL FOR PATRIOTS' DREAMS...

- ★ Elvis Presley played a number of shows at the Memorial Coliseum during his lifetime, including the next to last concert before his death in 1977.

- ★ During the catastrophic flood of 1982 which put Fort Wayne on the national map, the Memorial Coliseum served as shelter and command post for relief efforts. Many volunteers helped sandbagging efforts, young people who helped sandbag received free tickets to hear Indiana's own, John Mellencamp, then known as Johnny Cougar.

John Mellencamp

- ★ President Harry S. Truman gave a speech at the Memorial Coliseum in 1958, but he wasn't the only president to appear here — Richard Nixon spoke in 1969, Gerald Ford in 1976 and Ronald Reagan in 1978.

- ★ The biggest convention ever held at the Memorial Coliseum was the 25th annual Wing Ding meeting of the Gold Wing Road Riders Association in July 2002, which pumped an estimated $8 million into the local economy.

GROWTH AND RENEWAL

In the 1980s, a new convention hall was proposed as an addition to the original arena. The idea was to increase the floor space of the Memorial Coliseum, thereby making it more marketable.

In May 1989, the 108,000 sq. ft. Exposition Center was built, adding flexible space for trade shows, as well as, several smaller banquet-style rooms.

The Exposition Center with 108,000 sq. ft of floor space was completed in 1989.

In 2001, a major renovation was initiated to expand the Memorial Coliseum Arena and modernize the facility to keep pace with the times. As part of the project, the Memorial Coliseum's 1200-ton roof was slowly raised 41 feet, 10 inches — one of the largest projects of its type. The renovated, state-of-the-art facility now holds nearly 13,000 with more comfortable seats, luxury suites, and greater accessibility for guest with disabilities.

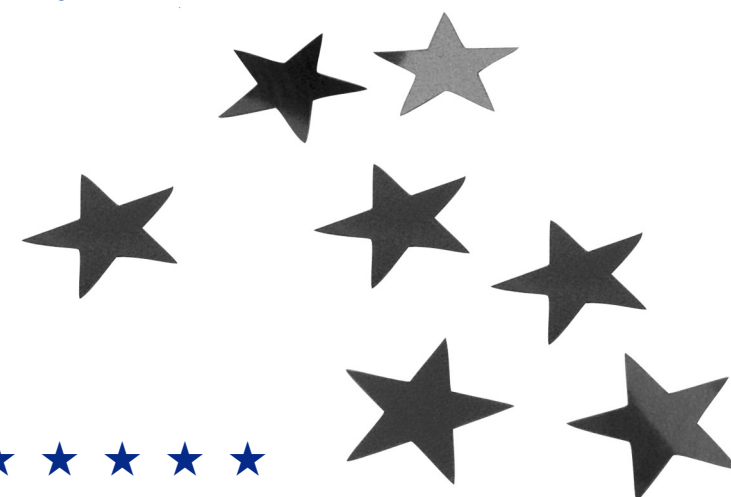

Ground breaking ceremonies on March 20, 2001 included relocating the 25,000 pound anchor from the World War II battleship USS Indiana.

In the new century, the Memorial Coliseum continues to serve the tri-state area as a focal point for family entertainment, arts and culture, sports, and community gatherings. It draws visitors from all over the Midwest, and has earned its reputation as one of the most successful facilities in the country. Today, the Memorial Coliseum stands at the heart of life in northeast Indiana, a fitting tribute to our veterans as a living memorial.

The new rotunda entrance built in 1989 features sculptures by artist Ann LaRose from Loveland, Colorado.

Raising the 1200-ton roof 41 feet, 10 inches on August 2, 2002, took just under five hours.

OH BEAUTIFUL FOR HEROES PROVED...

At the heart of the Memorial Coliseum is Memorial Hall, which commemorates soldiers from Allen County who gave their lives for our country. Plaques list the names of those killed in World War I, World War II, Korean War, Vietnam War, Berlin Air Lift and Persian Gulf War.

IN MEMORIAM

This Coliseum is dedicated as a living memorial in honor of these men and women of Allen County who gave their lives in the World War I, World War II, Korean War, Vietnam War, Berlin Air Lift and Persian Gulf War, so that we might live.
